DETAILED ACTION

Summary

1. Receipt of IDS filed on 04/14/06 is not in English language, as such the IDS is not acknowledged. Applicant is requested to provide at least English abstract of the IDS cited.

Claim 1 is pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Ishijima (US Pat. 5,409,714).

Ishijima expressly discloses pulveration of shells of oyster which were calcined which contains as the major ingredient calcium oxide, which is mixed with water (Column 5, Example 1) falling within the scope of applicant's claims. The composition will also contain calcium carbonate as pulveration of dry oyster shells will contain calcium carbonate (See Column 3, lines 36-38).

Alternatively, at the very least the claimed invention is rendered obvious within the meaning of 35 USC 103, because the prior art discloses products that contain the same exact ingredients/components as that of the claimed invention. See In re Fitzgerald, 205 USPQ 594 (CCPA 1980). See also In re May, 197 USPQ 601, 607 (CCPA 1978).

Regarding the agent being used for periodontal diseases, it is the position of the examiner that product of prior art comprises the claimed mixture of water with calcium carbonate, therefore the product will be capable of performing the claimed function.
